

YOUR INTRODUCTION TO PLANT BASED DIET

Welcome to your amazing plant based life!

You've probably purchased this 4 Week Plant Based Meal Plan because you are either new to the plant based lifestyle, OR you are simply looking for ways to learn some new recipes and meal ideas for your repertoire. Either way, you can be sure by the end of this plan that you will have learnt many valuable skills, along with some great recipes to stand you in good stead going forward.

You don't need to follow the plan to the letter, but following it as closely as possible will give you an idea about how to put a nutritionally complete meal together going forward. This will then become second nature to your after you have completed your plan. Plus, the menu has been approved by our dietitian to have the right amounts of macronutrients and calories to keep you in optimal health, so you can be 100% assured that you are receiving all the nutrition your body needs.

Changes You May Feel After Becoming Plant Based

Feeling less bloated and puffy

Higher immunity

Better sleep

- Less aches and pains in general
- Weight loss
  - More balanced hormones, including less PMS
- Better mood, feeling happier
  - Being healthier overall in the long term

Weight loss

You will probably find that you have lost some excess pounds by the end of your plan. However, this will be highly dependant on how well you have stuck to it, whether or not you have been using oils or eating excess fats, and how much exercise you do in general.

Be sure to take 40 minutes of exercise of your choice at least 3-4 x weekly for optimal results on this plan. Anything that gets your heart rate up is good, along with some weight bearing sessions too.

If you do have weight to lose, then omit all oils from recipes (you will find there are options for you to be able to do this easily).

Always stick to portion control too! You will find out more about this when you read the 'How the Plan Works' section below.

How The Plan Works

- You will be given a shopping list at the beginning of each week, so make sure you have everything you need in ready for the week ahead. Your first shopping list will probably cost you more and be lengthier than the rest of them, but this is due to the fact that you will be stocking up on some non-perishable products that will last you the whole plan.
- Breakfasts and lunch recipes will normally be for 1 person and dinners will be for 2-4 people (depending on the recipe), which is due to the fact that some meals will be eaten again the next day for lunch to save time and money. You can just double the recipes if you are cooking for more, or adjust them accordingly.
- Do try to stick as close to the plan as possible, as the nutrition has been worked out on a daily basis specifically to the plant based diet, and reviewed by our dietitian. If you start to swap and change meals about then you may contradict this. However, a couple of changes if absolutely needed will not do any harm. For instance, if you don't fancy eating some of the same meals for lunch the next day, then you could swap them with the day after (most pre-prepped meals will keep in the fridge for up to 3 days) Remember, this is meant to be a fun and learning experience, not feel like it's too regimented.

All meals and snacks have been worked out to roughly 2,000 calories a day, as this is the amount of calories required by the average person. If you are a male who is used to eating more than this, and you don't have weight to lose, then feel free to eat enough to be satiated. This is not supposed to be a calorie controlled diet, so don't go hungry. It's all about health, fitness and feeling awesome. Just listen to your body and stay away from ALL junk foods, which includes any refined sugars or carbs such as white flours, rice, pasta and breads. Everything in this plan is wholegrain and whole food, apart from a little oil in certain recipes if you prefer it, but please learn to omit oils where you can because they have little nutrition and a whole load of calories. If you stick to this you will kill your sugar addiction pretty fast, and then your body will naturally start to tell you when it's full or when it wants to eat. You will find balance.

As mentioned, there are very minimal oils used in this plan, so if you prefer to be 100% whole foods plant based then by all means omit the oil as we have made amendments for this option. If you wish to lose weight then you should stick to the no oil options as much as possible too.

Make sure you stick to portion sizes when it comes to snacks, especially the high fat snacks such as nuts and seeds. Be even more vigilant if you do wish to lose weight, and once again, listen to your body. If you start to gain weight then you will need to cut out or down on the high fat snacks and stick to the lower calorie ones instead. You will start to understand over the course of the next 12 weeks just how much your body needs to stay at your desired weight, without the need for strict measurements.

You won't be counting calorie, protein or carbohydrate intakes on this plan. It is all worked out for you by our dietitian. The aim of the plan is to have the freedom to not have to worry about such things that can get in the way of you living your life. Instead, during the course of the plan you will find that putting a healthy meal together becomes second nature once you understand your plant based macronutrient groups.

PORTION SIZE - Bear in mind that portion sizes will have to be kept to your own discretion, but a general rule of thumb is your carbs should fill one cup cooked (1.5 cups for a male), your protein roughly the size of the palm of your hand, and fats the size of your thumb.

If you are gluten-free then please replace any glutenous products with their gluten-free counterparts.

Pay close attention to servings. Some recipes serve two, some four, depending on what it is. Obviously, you need to amend these to suit you and your family. Or, if you are cooking for one then you can easily freeze extra portions of most things. Don't forget to take into account the fact that some meals need extra for the next day's lunch etc. But other than that FREEZE, FREEZE.

If you don't wish to snack in-between meals then you can easily incorporate your allocated snacks into meal times if you feel you need to.

It's very important you do your prep for the week ahead when specified (ideally the weekend before) as you don't want to be caught short. You will be given your shopping list and prep instructions the Sunday before, therefore you will have time to get everything ready over the weekend (you may want to check it on the Saturday if that works better for you). There will also be an easy bake to do on a Sunday. You won't need to save ALL of your weekly prep bakes for yourself as you will only need 2-3 portions (although you may wish to use them in your snack quota), so feel free to share with your family or friends - they won't complain

Use sugar-free plant milks in your usual teas and coffees, and a natural sweetener if you need sugar. Xylitol or stevia are good examples to use. You will find the best plant alternatives to use in hot drinks are soy, almond, and pea milks as they are more neutral in flavour and don't curdle as easily. Pea and Barista milks are definitely the best for not curdling in coffee, but watch the calorie, fat and sugar content of them as they are often high on both counts.

Try to swap your usual tea and coffee for caffeine-free versions; OR try to cut down your caffeine load in general by just having 1-2 caffeinated drinks per day only if you really need to. Swap with lots of herbal teas, or even green tea which is full of antioxidants and still gives you a light caffeine boost.

Drink LOTS of pure water. Go for filtered or bottled, as opposed to tap where possible to keep chemical load down. You will really notice the difference in your skin when you stop drinking so much tap water. A filter is much better rather than keep buying plastic bottles for obvious reasons.

SUPPLEMENTS - The 3 nutrients that plant based and vegan eaters can become deficient in are Omega 3 fatty acids, Vitamin D and Vitamin B12. Your body can store B12 and D for a while, but if you decide to become a permanent plant based eater then you will probably need to use supplements for these. However, you will need to make sure you get your Omega 3's very regularly. Omega 3 ALA is in many nuts and seeds so you will be fine on that front, but Omega 3 DHA is only found in oily fish and algaes, therefore you will either have to eat at least 3 portions of seaweed a week either in your cooking or snacks, OR you will need to buy a vegan DHA supplement. Don't skimp on this as DHA is crucial for mood and brain function, among many other things.

If you are a person living alone eating the foods on this plan, then you may want to amend the shopping list or recipes to one person. However, this may not be time and cost effective to do this all the time, therefore, as mentioned before, freezing in portions is imperative, along with freezing excess herbs.

Also, use up other excess produce as part of your snacks so you don't waste anything.

Meal Prep:

You will find that there is an easy bake to make on each Sunday for the week ahead. This will usually be something that will make a healthy breakfast or snack.

Equipment you will need:

- A high speed blender like a Nutri Bullet or Nutri Ninja will make your life so much easier with these recipes, and is in fact pretty vital. It really is worth the investment as it can be used for so many things, and moving forward as a plant based eater you will definitely need one.
- You will need both scales that measure in grams and a set of measuring cups for these recipes.

THINGS TO PREP

HIGH PROTEIN GRANOLA RECIPE

This is something that will become a staple in your diet, just because it has so much nutrition, protein and healthy fats. It is also low GI and will keep your blood sugar stable throughout the morning, and keep you filled up until lunch (or at the least until your mid-morning snack).

Make this granola the day before you begin your plan and then just keep remaking it as you run out (you will need it the whole way through, and you can always amend it with different fruits, nuts and seeds to suit your tastes). Make a big batch as it will last for weeks on end; just keep ALL your ingredients natural and sugar-free. Check all labels, especially on your dried fruits. You don't want to see any added sugars or fruits juices on any dried fruit labels, and ideally no preservatives either, though that's sometimes hard to find, granted.

IMPORTANT: Again, make sure you always have this granola made up as it will become a breakfast you will be eating on certain days all through the plan. The reason being, it is full of healthy fats!

For The Granola

- 2 x cups of buckwheat grouts You can buy these in most supermarkets or health food stores. These are very important because they are a highly nutritious, full of protein and fibre, and are actually a seed not a grain, so are gluten free too. They are also an immune booster with a full array of vitamins. You can just use these alone if you want a lower carb granola, or even if you just don't want to add oats; but oats do bulk it out.
- 3 x cups of jumbo oats Full of fibre, heart friendly and with beta glutens.
- 2/3 of a cup chopped raw walnuts High in Vitamin E and Omega 3's; good for the brain, heart and memory.
- 2/3 of a cup of chopped raw almonds High in magnesium, help lower cholesterol, fat burning.
- 1/3 cup of chopped raw Brazil nuts High in selenium for mood, high in iron and calcium.
- 1 cup of coconut flakes or desiccated coconut
- 1/2 cup of milled chia powder or seeds Omega 3's, fibre, calcium, antioxidants.
- 1 cup of chopped dates Anti-inflammatory, bone health, phosphorus, Vitamin K.
- 2/3 cup of sultanas Iron, potassium, antioxidants.
- 15 x chopped unsulphured apricots Vitamin A, good for the blood, bones and skin.
- Goji berries (optional, but taste great) Powerful anti-aging superfood.
- 1 x heaped tablespoon of Ceylon cinnamon powder (to help with evening out your blood sugar for the whole day ahead).
- 2 x teaspoons of ginger powder Anti-inflammatory, digestive aid.
- 2/3 cup of cacao nibs (optional) Flavenols, antioxidants, magnesium.
- 4 x tablespoons of virgin coconut oil Fat burning; can help control blood sugar alongside a low-sugar diet.

- 1. Heat your oven to 180C (350F), then add two large baking trays with 2 tablespoons of coconut oil in each of them to melt (this is optional as it tastes just as good without)
- 2. Mix the buckwheat grouts and jumbo oats together, then add in equal amounts to the pans and mix into the oil
- 3. Bake for about 15 minutes. Take out and give it another mix, then return and bake for a further 10 or so minutes until going slightly brown or golden. You want a nutty effect, but not burnt
- 4. Take out, leave to cool, then simply add in all the other ingredients and mix well. It's important you keep all the other ingredients in their raw state as this will keep the nutritious oils and antioxidants stable you want this to be a virtually 'raw' breakfast as pure raw foods just give you more energy in general
- 5. Next, store in a large mason jar, or other airtight container and it will keep for weeks (probably longer, but mine never hangs about that long).
